Mark: Anna! We need to talk something over. I am so tired of this noisy environment. Your kids are running all around my room over and over again! They have taken over my place completely and they need to stop NOW!

Ann: Easy! Easy! Someone's just got up on the wrong side of the bed. What's happened overnight? You are totally overreacting! They haven't taken over your place. They are just hanging around. You know, they love goofing around with their favorite uncle! Perhaps, they were a little over-friendly?

Mark: I am sorry I got back late last night and overslept..I just don't feel that great. I overworked the last few weeks, you know?

Ann: Yes hon, and you also overdrank last night..

Mark: I said I HAD a business dinner! Don't make me start it again.. Phew. Can you please take them out of my room.

Ann: oh, Mark! Think it over ! if they come out of your room, they are going to touch and break everything in the living room and make a big fuss!

Mark : I know but ..

Ann: Come over here kids! Gee! No running! you are going to fall over!

Mark : You shouldn't run over there! You should walk over!

Ann: Hey guys. Don't cry.. your uncle is just a bit cranky because of his work. Let's just keep it down a little bit, okay?

Mark : I am sorry. I didn't mean to yell at them.

Ann: it's alright. They will get over it any minute now.

Kids : Yeah, we are already over it! I am not crying. Sorry uncle Mark. We just wanted to spend time with you.

Ann: Ohh.. I am sorry too kiddos. Okay, let's start over, and get back to having fun again! What are you saying?

Why don't we go to the Kids café?

Ann: Bummer! I've already tried to make a reservation, but they are all over-booked.

Mark : It's all right. They are overpriced anyway! Let's just go to the playground. It's right around the corner!

Ann: looks like somebody just overcame his hangover! We'll have fun.. even though it's quite dull and overcast today. Hopefully, it won't rain!

Mark : All right then!
